

Klarna – Audition Instructions and Notes – Little Sidekick

- Please submit a slate that starts with this sort of framing:

- Please say your first and last name, your age if you're under 18. Also, I need you to confirm on camera that you have a valid passport through at minimum November of 2021 and that you have a guardian that also has a valid passport through at minimum November of 2021. Then include a video full body shot as well. We only need one slate, you don't have to slate before each take.

Character Notes:

You shouldn't be bullying in your tone, your just being honest. You are the lead actor's conscience, you're like an inner voice that's giving some fashion tips. On one hand you're playfully mocking his lockdown look with cheesy jokes but on the other hand you're encouraging him to come back to fashion. You're like the human version of Jiminy Cricket in Pinocchio, you're his fashion conscience that follows him around everywhere. You respect him but you just want him back to his stylish ways! The client has also made some notes about you being a Shakespeare type MC so you could have a fun with the rhythm of your speech if you'd like.

Audition Notes:

Each of the sentences written on the script are separate moments. In the script you'll be popping out from various locations that the hero goes, you show up, or pull up in a car next to him, or pop up from a grate in the street, or he turns around and you're standing there..so if you want to you can go in and out of frame as long as there's not a ton of blank space in the footage, or you can just stand in one place and do them one after the other. You can also 100% make up some of your own if you want as long as they relate to him losing his fashion game...remember you're trying to get him to come back to being stylish again.

Have fun!!!!
